Discovery-Corp Clarifies Disclosures at BCSC Request

Vancouver – As a result of a review by the British Columbia Securities Commission, Discovery-Corp Enterprises Inc. (the “Company”) is issuing the following news release to clarify its disclosure as required by National Instrument 43-101.

The Company’s website www.discovery-corp.com has been revised. In the Galaxy webpage, the following sentence has been added to several sections that mention historical estimates, “This resource estimate cannot be verified, therefore should not be relied on, and is reported only for historical interest.” The previous version of the webpage that referenced historical estimates lacked additional information as required by section 2.4 of NI 43-101.

The Company has also deleted a chart in the Galaxy webpage under Regional Geology. The previous chart added inferred resources to other resources contrary to section 2.2(c) of NI 43-101.

The Company will also be adding information about its Qualified Person as defined by NI 43-101 wherever appropriate in its website.

The Company has removed a Shareholder Letter from its website for updating and to clarify disclosure. The previous Shareholder Letter contained a map that showed mineral resources estimates for properties adjoining its Rock Creek Ranch property in Nevada without providing the applicable categories, contrary to section 2.2 (a) of NI 43-101.

The previous Shareholder Letter also disclosed historical estimates without the cautionary language required by section 2.4(g) of NI 43-101.

The Company will ensure that future investor relations materials comply with all the provisions of NI 43-101.
